QUALITY ASSURANCE OF EDUCATION

Mock accreditation of training programs for Medical Doctors according to ASK2019 standards

From January 23-26, at the Faculty of Medicine, a mock accreditation of the Medical Doctor training program according to ASK2019 standards took place. This accreditation was conducted by the Korea Institute of Medical Education and Accreditation (KIMEE).

This is the first time the Medical Doctor training program has been accredited by KIMEE – an accreditation organization recognized by the World Federation for Medical Education (WFME). The accreditation period lasted from January 23 to January 26 with many interviews with groups writing self-assessment reports, lecturers, students and visits to training facilities to comprehensively evaluate the Medical Doctor training program.

The Faculty of Medicine has accredited the Medical Doctor training program according to 3 sets of regional and world accreditation standards within 2 years. The results of this accreditation round will be a step to create momentum for Medical Doctor training program to meet the accreditation standards of the World Federation for Medical Education (WFME).

School leaders, teachers of the Faculty of Medicine and the KIMEE inspection team took souvenir photos.
